

I feel that it's absolutely preposterous that telemarketers can freely, under no lawful restriction and no remorse, interrupt and even destroy our personal and quality time. At their convenience and whims, the phone line owners are left to suffer with unwanted calls.

If telemarketers have right and are free to call our lines, we, as the phone line owners, must also have the right to block their calls and to be free of the intrusion from unwanted calls in our quality time at home.
